Dedication

In recognition of their loyalty and devotion to their country, we, the Annual Staff, dedicate MAPLE LEAVES, 1945, to the memory of the following alumni who have given their lives to preserve our priceless heritage:

Captain Frank H. Jordan, Jr.

Corporal Richard Anderson

Private First Class Aubrey Shouse

Private First Class Everett Farris

Private First Class Jess Carter

Sergeant Randal Bentley

Foreword

In presenting this publication to our patrons and friends we wish to say that it is by no means a complete record of our school year. We have had many pleasures not recorded here and in this confusing world we have often felt uncertain and dissatisfied. Nevertheless on these pages you will find an account of our school as we hope to remember it through

Class Will

The Senior Class of 1945 leave to our beloved Principal, Mr. Jordan, our sincere thanks for his goodness and fatherly counsel, to the faculty, our gratitude for their patience and help, together with the wish that we have not caused them too many worries.

To our friends, the Juniors, our dignity, the use of our warm room, all our books, papers, and pencil stubs which you will find invaluable in acquiring knowledge; also our thanks to all of you, our classmates for your friendship and the good times we have enjoyed together.

Then, after due consideration of our many talents and accomplishments we do hereby will and bequeath our most prized possessions as follows:

I, Margaret Farmer, will my ability to talk Miss Francis out of government tests to Sarah Moungrides.

I, Willard Akers, will my height to Bill Brodie so he can pass for the army.

I, Ruth Foster, will my love for music to Frances McCoy.

I, Mary Jane Dudley, will my position as basketball player and a cheerleader to Mary Hurst.

I, Tommy Hedge, will my ability to imitate movie actors and be annoying to Alfred Carden.

I, Merle Whitt, will my privilege to enter the army upon finishing school to Norman Keller.

We, Leona Haga and Eunice Shelton, will to Mrs. Copenhaver "A big armful of mail every day"?

I, Ross Brown, will my small feet, and my ability to get along with women to Billy Hilton.

I, Herbert Shelton, will my good French grades to Jimmy Kirby.

I Joan Graham, will my love for men to Pauline Galloway.

I, Lorraine Brookman, will my Southern drawl to Sherman Hurst to help him talk more slowly.

I, Genevieve Smith, will my ability to get into trouble to Ruth King.

I, Mary Southern will Richard Guthrie my hard work on the High School Annual.

I, Della King, will the Declaration of Independence, with the compliments of Thomas Jefferson, to Nellie Cox.

I, Fern Bowers, will my love for soldiers to Dorothy Walker and Edith DeHart.

I, Archie Whitt, will my ability to throw my knee out of socket to Howard Stanton.

I, Bill Smith, will my way with the teachers to Red Crabtree. I think he will need it.

I, Bobby Pannell, will my ability to work in the store to Rodney Lance.

I, Virginia Walker, will my seat on the bus to Barbara Waddell, and Ilectris Dalton, hoping that they will have as much fun there as I did.

I, O. H. Morris, hereby will and bequeath my ability of getting English to J. W. Linkous.

I, Irvin Akers, will my ability to cut classes and get away with it to Buddy Smith, as he hasn't had the experience.

Prophecy

I was attracted to a small doorway on a busy street. The sign above read, "The Crystal Globe, Madame Coutessa, Crystal Gazer."

I curiously ventured on to find a very attractive reception room unoccupied, although an expensive fur coat hanging on the rack told me that Madame Coutessa was busy. From an obscure doorway hidden by drapery emerged a petite little brunette who requested that Mademoiselle be seated until she could enter the Room of the Future with Madame.

When at last "Madame" would see me, I entered a darkened passageway and emerged into a beautifully furnished small room hung with rich red satin hangings. There was a small mahogany table, in the center of which was a large crystal globe which resembled any other glass globe, or an inverted bowl. I sat down in the chair at the table as my small dark friend suggested.

There is nothing unusual about my surroundings, I said to myself, except lavish furnishings.

Almost immediately there appeared from behind luxurious hangings, "Madame," tall, dark, and stately, robed in garments as expensive as her surroundings. Her piercing black eyes seemed to take me in from head to toe. I was almost frightened, but I came for this and I shall see it through, I thought.

"Madame" seated herself directly opposite me at the table. Her jeweled fingers fell hoveringly over the globe and all light faded. Then the globe took on the many hues of irredescence. "Madame's" eyes no longer surveyed me, but remained fixed on the globe as she asked, "Mademoiselle desires to look into the future?"

"Oh, yes!" I replied, "You see, Madame, I want to know where my classmates will be in 1955. There are 22 of us, 10 boys and 12 girls."

"Oh, my child, that is very simple!" and Madame began in a voice slow and resolute. "First I see an attractive brunette, athletic and friendly, who is an athletic instructor in a large Eastern college." (Secretly I knew that it was Mary Jane at William and Mary.) "Next is that witty girl, a private secretary in a large business firm". (Della, just as I thought). "I now see a little cottage in Texas, and someone is coming out, the petit one, who must have been engaged when she was in high school." (Mrs. J. B. White to you, folks). "The scene changes. I see a charming girl behind a desk in California, Hollywood is the place, and she is a private secretary to a movie producer." (No one but Margaret Farmer, I am sure.) "What is that noise? Why, it must be cheers at a football game. The spectators are cheering No. 45, the best full back of Notre Dame." (Good luck, Merle, I knew that you would do it!)

The light fades again, and I know that the scene is changing for "Madame" too. "Lights of a large theater in a humming city of Southwest Virginia shine brightly across the miles. The dark one, handsome and athletic, is the manager." (This can be no other than Tommy, I thought to myself.

Madame breathed a sigh of relief, rubbed her eyes and started again. "There are voices of little ones, three to be exact. The father is speaking rapidly to them, and they are all girls. (Can this really be Willard, I thought.) "The perfumed air of spring comes to me as I see a tall, mischievous fellow pitching for the New York Giants." (Surely I needn't tell you who this is! Archie, why surely!) "Now comes the odor of the anaesthetic and the sight of a small brunette looking all starched and kindly as she moves about the halls of a large hospital." (Yes, no other than Mary Southern).

Our mystic journey now takes us to the West Virginia hills and to the home of a prosperous coal operator, "Madame" says. (The mistress of this house could be no other than Helen Surface).

Again the scene changes, this time to the other side of the globe, where "Madame" sees a successful young engineer laying plans for a tremendous bridge in southern China. (This is O. H., I am sure.) "The sound of an airplane now reaches my ears as I see a large airport in Texas. I see a man coming out of a hangar, a colonel." It is Clarence Tolbert, I know. "Keep 'em flying, Clarence" I breathe to myself.)

Again the smell of anaesthetics comes back to "Madame" as she finds herself in the center of a large hospital. "A stately brunette is emerging from the children's ward." (Of course, that's Genevieve.)

With a twitch of facial muscles, I knew "Madame" was called far from her charming surroundings and then she spoke again. "Somewhere near the scene of your present school is a jovial girl of your class who is mistress of a lovely farm house and two charming children." (It must be you, Virginia). "Progressing into the deep South, possibly Birmingham, I see a large factory owned and operated by a decided brunette, whose piercing black eyes leave no business stone unturned." (Pannell, no doubt!) "The chemical laboratory of this establishment is headed by a blonde, quiet and efficient in his manner." (Herbert, you did make a go of that chemistry!)

The puzzled expression on my face must have told "Madame" that I was amazed at her uncanny predictions. They were so true to the desires of my classmates. And particularly as she continued with a fortune of one whom I knew to be Ross. "A prosperous looking farm owned and managed by a very tall brunette nestles among the hills not far from your school."

But "Madame" couldn't get far from the medical profession with our class for she now spoke of Lorraine and Ruth, I'm sure. "Two uniformed girls are leaving a hospital. One, a tall brunette, taking her internship and the other, a small blonde, is chief technician."

"I now see a very nice little cottage in Richmond, Virginia. It is a Home Ec Cottage and the teacher is very busy teaching her class how to sew". (This must be Leona Haga). Another home now takes form in the crystal globe and the cutest set of twins with blond hair, play merrily in the yard." (Eunice Shelton's home, I knew.) "The lights of a huge night club in Chicago shine very brightly. People are rushing to get in, for it's a new place. The names of two of your girls appear in bright lights—one sings and the other dances." (I knew the "Club 41" belonged to Irvin and I felt sure Ruth King was the dancer, and oh, how I hoped that Josie was the singer!)

Again "Madame" straightened and looking directly at me said, "That's all, my dear. Five dollars, please." I was just another customer to "Madame" but to the Senior Class of 1945 what I knew was a lifetime.

JOAN GRAHAM,

MERLE WHITT.

Class Poem

If you compare D. H. S. with all the rest,
Agree with us and you'll think it's best.
Let's take our classmates, one by one,
Look at their personalities and leave out none;
First there are the giggles of Eunice, unmistakable?
No, because when you hear her, you'll say so;
Then there's a cute little guy, we'll all agree,
Our own Bobby Pannell—whoopee!
Now, if you know who we mean,
The lights are low, the ladies scream—
Sinatra? Grable? No he's a hit—
Yes, that's right—our own Merle Whitt!
One who studies—hmm—let's see—
Well, that must be Leona Haga;
One who never studies—easy to be found—
Why of course you know, that's Ross Brown;
There's a swell little blonde and boys don't forget her,
Joan Graham who is some go-getter;
A petite brownette we also possess—
Mary Southern, if you haven't guessed;
For a sense of humor Willard tops the pot;
If you don't know him you've missed a lot;
Then there's our captain, Archie Whitt,
Who in baseball and football would never quit;
There's the sweetness of Margaret, the friendliness of Genevieve.
And we won't forget Fern, who laughed with a glee;
Next is Della, with her wit you'll never be bored
Once you know her you'll be back for more;
There's Tommy Hedge, handsome, dark, and tall,
Watch out, girls, you'll be likely to fall!
And if you are looking for some fun
Most of us think Helen Sapanas is the one;
We also have other merry-makers
Of whom you can guess the biggest is Irvin Akers;
There are the twinkling eyes of Lorraine, the talkativeness of Walker
Small wonder that none of us can out-talk her;
If you are looking for someone else to talk with That's none other than William P. Smith;
You can see we have many interesting folks
Such as Herbert Shelton and his jokes;
And two or three more of us you see,
The two little Ruth's and last is me
They are fair with their classmates and I with my poetry;
Now that you've seen us personally,
Can't you agree in reality?

MARY JANE DUDLEY

Class History

Life begins at forty! Humph! that's what they think! Why everyone knows it begins when you enter high school although when we were freshmen sometimes it looked as if life would end right there. And it certainly looked that way to about one hundred of us on September 3, 1941.

Gee! What a bunch! Mrs. Wilkinson, Miss Allison, and Mr. Parker took the rap and took us in. We were a fairly decent bunch., though, and most of us passed our exams in May.

When the next year came there were only fifty-six of us because work in war plants attracted many of the girls and of course the boys were soon to be called into service. Mrs. Wilkinson had us all that year and we spent most of our time looking forward to becoming juniors.

In September, 1943, we realized a dream came true. But we waked up when we found out how hard English was, and history.

We all had enough fun to make up for the work when we entertained the seniors at a game party and dance late in the spring.

But along came exams again! And this time so much depended on them for we just had to pass our work. We were getting to the place where we realized we must have credits and we would like to have good grades, too.

Twenty-three of us came in as seniors—the Senior Class of 1945. We have had a nice class but throughout the year we have been conscious of the fact that any day most of our boys may be called into the service. In fact, Clarence Talbert was already in the Air Corps when he entered school last fall. In March O. H. Morris left to enter the Navy and receive his training at Bainbridge. All of us went with him to the bus and sang our school song none too joyfully when he left.

We are very proud of all of our classmates who are now with the armed service. To the family of Aubrey Shouse, killed in action November 8, 1944, we extend our deepest sympathy. Others of our classmates now in training or in active duty include Tyree Farris, Garnet Hill, Dan Bell, Clarence Carden, Robert Harless, Billy Gibson, and Robert Harman. The best to you, Fellows!

We shall always remember with lots of pleasure our party at Genevieve's, and Miss Francis's supper and theater party for our class, in February. Nor will we be likely to forget "Tom Sawyer" our senior play, with Archie as Tom, Tommy as Huck, Mary as Becky, and Mary Jane as Aunt Polly, together with all of the rest of the cast which will make it so much fun.

Well, it's all been a lot of fun, folks, and we are sorry to leave you but every bird must try its wings and we are raring to go. So long, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen! It's all yours from here on!

FERN BOWERS

What We Think of Our Seniors

When many Underclassmen were asked what they thought of the Seniors and what comic strip character would best suit each we received these answers:

1. Irvin Akers—Popeye
   2. Lazy, slow and unconcerned; went to class but seldom cared if he learned.
   b. Lots of fun; and some tease!
   c. I agree with no man's opinion; I have some of my own.

2. Willard Akers—Cranberry Boggs.
   a. Let any man speak long enough and he will get believers.
   b. Clever, handsome, but please slow down on that speech so we can understand you.

3. Fern Bowers—Tillie.
   a. Light as a fairy when dancing, and nearly as small, too.
   b. I have made the important discovery in this country that a "jitterbug" is not an insect, but a human being acting like one.

4. Lorraine Brookman—Brenda Breeze.
   a. Tall and slim, and full of mischief.
   b. Cute, industrious, and a Southern drawl.
   c. When she walks her whole figure makes eyes at you.

5. Ross Brown—Andy Gump.
   a. Without love and laughter there is no joy.
   b. You are liked by all because you have a friendly smile.
   c. Let us have wine and women, mirth and laughter, sermons and soda-water, the day after.

6. Mary Jane Dudley—Mary Marvel.
   a. Great athletic ability.
   b. Athletic, capable, intelligent and friendly.
   c. Athletic yet delicately feminine, a good combination.

7. Ruth Foster—Boots.
   a. Such a singer, and oh so sweet.
   b. Small, fair of hair and face.

8. Margaret Farmer—Daisy Mae.
   a. Nice, neat, and very attractive.
   b. A good dancer, lots of fun.
   c. Swell chap but not up on baseball.

9. Joan Graham—Gravel Gertie.
   a. As irresponsible as a streak of lightning.
   b. Golden locks and a friendly smile.
   c. How can I study with love affairs on my mind?
   d. A mighty hunter is she, and her prey is man.

10. Leona Haga—Mamie.
   a. A good disposition is more valuable than gold.
   b. True to her work and her friends.
   c. Scholarly and quiet.
   d. Jolly, yet serious, fun-loving, yet sincere.

11. Tommy Hedge—Joe Palooka.
   a. He has ability for good service.
   b. Capable, handsome, lazy, and lots of fun.
   c. When he works, he works—but when does he work?
   d. He may not be Clark Gable, but he has at least got a good start.

12. Della King—Toots.
   a. All sunny and sweet the maiden appears.
   b. A jolly, unselfish personality her greatest gift.
   c. Your sweet personality and clever ways will help you get on in the world.

13. O. H. Morris—Mcon Mullins.
   a. Here comes the Navy and a jolly good fellow.
   b. He is a leader of men and a follower of women.
   c. Capable, intelligent and a leader.

14. Bobby Pannell—Sweetpea.
   a. I say little, but think more.
   b. A world of fun with your teasing and joking.
   c. A lively streak among your classmates.

15. Helen Sapanas—Kandy Kane.
   a. Ask me no question, I'll tell you no lies.
   b. She is little, she is shy (?)
      There's a mishief in her eye—
      She's a flirt.

16. Eunice Shelton—June
   a. Grades, friends, and what a talker!
   b. Never idle, never still; always talking, talk she will.
   c. Industrious and dependable.

17. Billy Smith—Wimpy.
   a. I will say nothing, just watch.
   b. Quiet, reserved.
   c. As silent as a sundial.

18. Genevieve Smith—Bubbles.
    a. Timid, dimpled and jolly.
    b. If giggles were riches—she'd be a millionaire.

19. Mary Southern—Orphan Annie.
    a. From her we shall read the perfect way to honor.
    b. Her intelligence and leadership have made her very popular.
    c. She has a sweetness all her own.

20. Virginia Walker—Maggie.
    a. A merry laugh, and what a walk!
    b. High school days have their delights, but they can't compare with high school nights.

21. Archie Whitt—Flash Gordon.
    a. As an athlete he really rates,
       But, as a lover—wow! he's great.
    b. A football hero and an all around good chap.
    c. On the athletic field he shines,
       But for other honors he never pines.

22. Merle Whitt—Terry.
    a. Some man with friendship and brains, too.
    b. Athletic, friendly, popular, and some guy with the girls.

Our season opened on September 15 with Pulaski, on their field. With the loss of one of our backfield men, we lost 25-0.

On September 29 we came to the stand with a hard-hitting team in good shape and set Hillsville back with a 13-0 victory on our home field.

Now we stood even, with one loss and one victory. With Hedge back in fullback we worked hard to overcome the Greenwaves at Narrows October 6, but they passed over in the last 15 seconds, 6-0.

In our next game with Clifton Forge, October 13, we lost a guard and a tackle and took a heavy beating by the hard-hitting eleven, 32-0.

Pearisburg's hard-driving bunch came next. Although they were difficult to stop we did so with a score of 12-6, on our own field, October 27.

The Dukes had several new men at their stations when we lined up our next game with Schoolfield on November 3. Even though we knew nothing of their team we played our best game of the season and defeated their eleven 13-0, at Dublin.

We returned the game with Hillsville, November 10, running high in the first half so we overcome them 25-0.

Next came our game with Rural Retreat, November 17, on their field. Tough luck hit us with Carden sick but Akers took the spot at right, while Linkous took over his tackle. Akers scored seven points, and Merle Whitt scored six to overcome a stout eleven in a game ending with a score 13-7.

Our last game scheduled was with Radford, November 24 at Radford. This was a hard game and we lost 20-0 completing the season with five games won and four lost..

JOKES

Jokes

Mr. Wygal: What's on the menu for lunch?
Miss Lindsey: Oh, we have hundreds of things to eat today.
Mr. Wygal: What are they?
Miss Lindsey: Beans.

Alfred Carden: There is something wrong with this steak. It tastes queer.
Gloria Dulaney: I can't understand it, dear. I did burn it a little bit but rubbed vaseline on it right away.

Lorena: Now that we are engaged, Archie, you will give me a ring, won't you?
Archie: Sure, Lorena, what is your telephone number.

Mr. Kirby: Jimmy, I wish you would learn better table manners. You are a regular little pig at the table. Do you know what a pig is?
Jimmy: Yes, sir, it's a hog's little boy.

Miss Francis wanted to impress on her History III class that there was nothing a man could not do if he put his mind to it. J. W. Linkous begged to differ.
"Well," said Miss Francis. "tell me in the class what it is."
"You try to light a match on a piece of soap," J. W. answered.

Richard Guthrie: Do you believe in Buddha?
Billy Jennings: Of course, but I think oleomargarine is just as good.

In a gay and carefree mood Willard called Mary S. at two o'clock in the morning. "I do hope I haven't disturbed you," he said cheerily.
"Oh, no," Mary replied, "that's all right. I had to get up to answer the phone anyway."

Mrs. Grigsby: With a single stroke of the brush Joshua Reynolds could change a smiling face to a frowning one.
Frederick: So can mother.

Sherman: Daddy, what's the difference between a rifle and a shotgun?
Mr. Hurst: There is a big difference, son. It's as if I spoke and then your mother spoke.

Ada: You must come to our home warming, "Pookie."
Pookie: I'd like to. I'll bring the matches.

Miss Alexander was teaching a particularly trying geometry class. Feeling that the pupils were very tired she decided to ease the situation with a rather pointless question. "If a chair has four legs, is painted orange, and rolls on coasters, how old am I?"

"Fifty-four," exclaimed Mary Brammer.

"Why how did you know?" asked the astonished Miss A.

"Well, my brother is twenty-seven and he is only half crazy," answered Mary.

Nancy P.: Why, Dan, you ordered without even looking at the menu.
Dan: Simple. I ordered from the waiter's apron.

Kelly: Why didn't you answer my letter?

Helen: I didn't get it, and besides I didn't like some of the things you said in it.

Fern: J. B., dear, we have been going together for ten years. Don't you think we should get married?

J. B.: You're right, but who will have us??

Lila W. and George Perry were returning to their seats in the theater after intermission.

"Did I tread on your toes as I went out?" George asked the man at the end of the row.

"You did," replied the other grimly, expecting an apology.

George turned to Lila and said, "all right then, this is our row."

Mrs. Price: Dorothy, who was that you were talking to for a whole hour at the gate?

Dorothy: Oh, that was Dicky Meador. He didn't have time to come in.

A Service Station Man: Where is your radiator cap?

Della: On the front end of my car, and don't call me "Cap"!

J. W. M.: Well, I know all about Ruth King now.

James .: How did you find out?

J. W. M.: I have been keeping her parrot for her while she was away.
